

Fortune International Group Presents Second Miami Luxury Real Estate and Design Open House

Curated selection of South Florida's most extraordinary residential towers presented alongside exquisite Italian home furnishings by B&B Italia

Miami Twice. Tax payer sticker shock and luxury real estate were top of mind on Wednesday, March 20, when the Miami Luxury Real Estate & Design Open House presented by Fortune International Group – a recognized leader in development, residential real estate sales and marketing since 1983 – returned to New York City.

Over 300 leading New York real estate professionals and prospective South Florida homebuyers joined Fortune International Group at B&B Italia's exquisite

Madison Avenue home furnishings store for an exclusive opportunity to preview a curated selection of Miami's most prestigious properties while further exploring Florida's tax friendly climate and why a move to Miami is worth considering. Participating properties at the Open House included Jade Signature, The Ritz-Carlton Residences, Sunny Isles Beach, 57 Ocean, Monaco Yacht Club & Residences, Missoni Baia, Una Residences, and Panorama.

The Miami Luxury Real Estate & Design Open House also featured two in-depth discussions focusing on the financial benefits of investing in Miami real estate and changing one's domicile to Florida presented by leading tax expert Barry Horowitz, partner at WithumSmith+Brown, and a design discussion led by Modern Luxury Interiors national editor, Sarah Bray, on interpreting contemporary culture and the evolution of living trends.

Christopher Jude. [Photos courtesy of Laura Acker]

Daiana Quiceno, L.J. Rodriguez, Susan Trevisa, Rita Collins, Sivan Koster, Christopher Jude.

Barry Horowitz, Jim Cohen

Gaby Valle, Liam Stefanov

Susan Trevisa

Sissy DeMara Koehne, Shana Kaufman, Laura Acker

